To the entire Guru community:

It's with a heavy heart that I must inform you that this site, Guild Wars Guru, will be shutting down on July 1st and will remain in Archive Mode. Over the past 11 years, we've become, and continued to remain, the #1 fansite for Guild Wars, and it's all because to you guys. Without such a strong and passionate community, Guru would have never made it this far and so we thank you for that.

And while we will be saying good-bye to our home here, we will continue to host forums for the GW community over at our sister site, Guild Wars 2 Guru. In fact, you are more than welcome to head on over now and begin posting. If you have any threads you'd like to transfer over, now would be the time.

So once again thank you, and especially those that contributed their time and knowledge to make Guru the amazing place it was. We'll see you over at Guild Wars 2 Guru!

Actually, is that even possible? Are the Southern Shiverpeaks accessible from the Northern Shiverpeaks? If not then that would mean the OP would have had to tagged along during missions to get to Droknar's Forge, which would mean that somehow the XP from the missions werent enough to level him/her up. Fascinating.

Actually that would be impossible (if I'm right about how you get to Droknar's, although I've never been one to "run" to places), since the two trips across the sea would be 2,000sp altogether surely...

From Beacon's Perch you can get run to the Southern Shiverpeaks. But what the OP has to say has about no value except that people are willing to run lvl 1's.

I know the path, it's accessible from Ascalon all the way to Beacon's Perch and then south to Drok's. Long run, but it would HAVE to be a run.

Nothing exciting here, move along. Mark that kid's name if you're going into the Ascalon Arena, though.

Get to level 2 then join groups in Thunderhead Keep for example. The funny part is, thats what I did, and people thought I was level 20 untill I confessed right before we finished the mission

I for one am in favor of drokmar running... perhaps even the challenge of arriving there as early as possible. But Azn fatass, you should be banned from the pre-level 20 arenas. You have used a valid game option as an exploit! You are using what is intended for level 20 characters only as a way to slaughter people who are new to the game and who are learning PvP for the first time.

You're misguided and should instead focus on trying to fight people who are on par with you instead of playing the insecure bully and stepping on people who are far weaker.

You're an asshat and once you reach the level 20 arenas and visit tombs you will get owned, because you will never learn how to fight people who are at the same level with you in armor and spells.

you suck.... seriously, really, suck!

There's not much challenge besides getting runners, typically.

Bedlight, if you haven't been there already you shouldn't be run there.

AznPhate, please go away. You're the reason why I never could get into the smaller Arenas.

-> Bedlight: Just play the game, and you'll get there as part of story.

-> AznPhate: Yeah, don't be a twink.

lmao, very nicky said (golf clap) and I totally agree. Azn, once you get into the arena, your ass is grass. i cant wait until you go in with the lvl 20 and become somones bitch. even i know not to go pvping with the 20s (im lvl 18), although i do, i get owned but i still whoop some ass. i just hope your in the same match as me....but on the other team.

wp. im all the way in the jungle, i despise running unless i absolutely need it, playing the game is why i bought it savio - i was joking about the running
(i was not trying to be an ass when i just responded to your posts vg and savio.)

Level 1 in Droknor is nothing. You can hire a runner running from ascalon to yak bends, then from yak bends to perch, then to Droknor.
What is not possible, is to be lvl 1 at Dragon's Lair. But I'd really like to see someone makes to Hell's Precipice as lvl 1, that's more an achievement than this lvl 1 at Droknor nonsense.

That is impossible (but you can make RoF at level 1).

You take the 2 pre-seer quests that you need and get run to thunderhead without gaining any XP at all. Then you do the RoF missions with only gaining the 1K XP from each. You can beat the game at level 3-4. I did it at 3 to see if it was possible but I was like 20 XP from level 4. It was funny in Hells Precipice because everyone was laughing at me.

lol... that would be a super cool achievement! And I think it would be possible.... only one completed mission is required and that is the one that brings you to the Ring. We should get some sort of Talisman or something to show we've beat the game (something that is customized to your name) then you could have a level 1 with an end game Talisman! That would be worth a hefty prize I think.
