To the entire Guru community:

It's with a heavy heart that I must inform you that this site, Guild Wars Guru, will be shutting down on July 1st and will remain in Archive Mode. Over the past 11 years, we've become, and continued to remain, the #1 fansite for Guild Wars, and it's all because to you guys. Without such a strong and passionate community, Guru would have never made it this far and so we thank you for that.

And while we will be saying good-bye to our home here, we will continue to host forums for the GW community over at our sister site, Guild Wars 2 Guru. In fact, you are more than welcome to head on over now and begin posting. If you have any threads you'd like to transfer over, now would be the time.

So once again thank you, and especially those that contributed their time and knowledge to make Guru the amazing place it was. We'll see you over at Guild Wars 2 Guru!

Technically, you have me beat on the XP. However, I COULD have gotten there 1k less XP because I went to Sanctum Cay first.

However, did you do it with 0 deaths?

Might have already been said but you can't run ring of fire. You have to do all of the missions in there to reach hells precipice. You can make it at level 2-3 and beat the game at 3-4 if you really try.

Oh that time I didn't do it with 0 deaths but I have beath the game and done accension with 0 deaths. (It was done with guildes and a dedicated level 20 protector monk keeping me alive along with a healer in later levels)

Ive run a lvl 1 from droknars to granite citadel for a couple of k. Pretty fun as he would run of and die instantly so not to get XP.

Well, I haven't been there either. I have 2 level 18 characters (and a new lvl 6). I actually enjoy playing the game (what a concept!). I still haven't tried PvP and hope to one day, but with guys like Azn in there it seems rather pointless.

I agree with DrSLUGFly, the advice he's given you is valuable for far more than a video game...get wise kiddo!

Got to agree
Drokmar's and Ivl 1 isn't impressive at all, neither is Marhans' Grotto.
Even Dragon's lair at low levels wouldn't be that impressive, because the likelihood is that the player just spent REALLY stupid amounts of cash, or got friends to carry him through the ascencion missions.
What were you expecting, OP? For people to all go "Oh wow, that's really cool! You got someone else to do all your work for you, just so you could come on the forum and say that you are a low level character in a high level area"? I hope you're really disappointed that you spent all that money and made the post now.

Sorry the level 1 I saw at the grotto in 15k gladiator's was more impressive, but neither shows any skill on your part just that you have nice friends who have some skill and free time...

actually, i don't think it's deserving of any prize since they're not actually doing anything but sitting and leeching. it takes no skill or achievement on their part. at level 1, you have 100 health, your spells only tickle the mursaat and the jades, your heals can't keep up w/ the damage output, and you can't get any damage from your "godly" weapon since you won't meet the req.

the ones who deserve a prize are the ones in the same party as a useless level 1 who is tagging along.

Get to droks at level 1 solo. Then you could claim "you" did something otherwise it's just an achievement of the party that ran you there. Most of us can follow others blindly with little or no skill.

Truly remarkable would be to get to emberlight as a 1. My guildmate made it as a two, couldn't manage to get there as a 1 unfortunately. That's remarkable

Does it strike anyone else that so many people - on both sides - are taking this too seriously.

It's a game.

Are you saying it is silly to be run to Drokmar's Forge - an imaginary place created from bits and bytes - but serious and noble to kill a hydra or fight a cartoony character wearing an odd hat? It's all just stuff you can do in the game. No one is hurt by any of it.

I haven't seen so much indignation since my bird dog farted while hiding under the table at Thanksgiving. (I swear it was the dog).

It's not only the fact of thread Necromancy.

It's that this thread has turned into a bunch of spam and useless comments. You go to the off-topic forum for that.
