You have died 1,000,000 times.

I have finally completed my journey!

I have been tired of Guild Wars for a while now. I haven't played it since last fall, really. In September, I believe, I saw someone make a thread on here about them farming 45,000 deaths. I decided to try to be the first person to farm a million deaths.

I could have reached my goal a lot earlier, but I couldn't have GW running 24/7, and a lot of times when I was AFK, I came back to find that I got disconnected. Also, a few months back ArenaNet made a change to the game that broke my method of farming deaths quickly. I had to do the rest in a slower way.

Anyway, here are the screenshots detailing my 1,000,000th death. I decided to give the honor to a Rockshot Devourer.

Finally I can give my PC some rest.

Way to go, I would defiently brag about being able to kill myself 1 million times to everyone I meet. Then I could go around with no group because i die so much.

He didn't "play" 12 hours a day, he left his computer on while AFK and left his monk in a position where it would get killed over and over. Pretty sure he even mentioned that in his original post.

A place like dreadnaughts drift, from the Lornars Pass side would kill you MANY times, and quickly too.

gratz, if only you got an exp point or maybe a gold coin for each time you died, thats would be fantastic!

I am not sure if the shrine camping in over the northern wall in presearing still works? Havent been there for many a months now.

1,000,000 deaths.....wow. STOP TORMENTING YOUR CHARACTER!!
if you guys wanna know a good place to get deaths outside warcamp has a very nice place. go near the res shrine and aggro a big group of stone summit. you die, you get ressed at shrine and you aggro the enemies. it goes on and on and on
